How to Use This Book

Let's face it – keeping track of student information can be quite the challenge! Especially if you are a small group leader, it always seems that you can never find or remember it when you need it. To help make this simple, this book is designed to help you keep track of your student information, both the practical information as well as a personal information to help you connect better with them.

There are two pages you can fill out per student:

Page 2: About the Student

Page 1 is pretty straightforward. It includes name, address, email, cell phone, birthday, and date of baptism, as well as parent/guardian information, and social media information.

Page 2 will give you an opportunity to remember more about your students. This includes a list of their favorite things, any sports or activities they participate in, their spiritual gifts and love languages, and even a place for any additional notes you need to remember about them.

Whether you ask a student to fill out a sheet or you write it down as you learn more about them, this book will hopefully help you connect with your students in whole new way. Shout-out to my Aunt Mary for recommending that I create this resource. And thank you for everything you do to invest in the lives of your students.

Note for the Sample Version – First of all, please note that the final product is a little over 200 pages, containing the next two pages of this sample 50 times, which should be more than enough room for record information for up to 100 students. Second, if you believe this to be a quality resource you would recommend to other youth ministries, please consider leaving a review on Amazon and telling others about it. It would go a long way in getting this resource into the hands of those that need it and supporting my work of creating youth ministry resources like this one.
Thanks
