HOW TO USE THIS JOURNAL

Trust me – I understand how hard it can be to plan out a youth ministry calendar. There tends to be so many factors we have to consider, making it difficult to know which activities to prioritize and how to schedule them. Even scheduling lessons or teaching topics can be overwhelming at times.

To help make this easier, this yearly planner is designed to help you schedule up to the next twelve months of content, with a focus on your weekly youth group meetings. There are three parts to this planner. The first part allows you to plan one month of content, allowing you to fill in the dates of your weekly meetings for the month, as well as the lesson/topic and the Scripture for each week. You can also write down any additional activities you are planning for the month. The back of this same page has a blank calendar grid that you can fill in to help you visualize your monthly schedule.

The second part of this resource helps you flesh out your plan for up to 52 weeks of your weekly youth group programming. You will have space to fill in basic details about your lesson, games, snacks, announcements, and any other programming for that night.

The last part of this resource allows you to plan the basic details for any youth event you are planning for the year, including date, location, costs, and resources needed.

Together, all of the parts of this resource will hopefully help you plan your next year of content well so you can serve your students better. Happy planning!

Note for Sample Version – First of all, please note that the final product is a little over 100 pages, containing the two pages of the monthly planner 12 times, the one page of the weekly planner 52 times, and the one page of the event planner 16 times. Second, if you believe this to be a quality resource you would recommend to other youth ministries, please consider leaving a review on Amazon and telling others about it. It would go a long way in getting this resource into the hands of those that need it and supporting the work of creating youth ministry resources like this one. Thanks
